PREFACE

The Ministry of Health and Family Welfare (MoHFW) stands as one of the most consequential portfolios in the Government of India's constitutional architecture. Governing a nation of 1.44 billion people with a disease burden spanning communicable diseases, non-communicable diseases (NCDs), maternal and child health challenges, and emerging pandemic risks the Ministry's mandate is at once vast and operationally complex. India's aspiration to become a Developed Nation (Viksit Bharat) by 2047 is inextricably linked to the health outcomes of its people. A healthy, productive citizenry is the foundational prerequisite for sustained economic growth, demographic dividend realisation, and inclusive social development.

This Knowledge Paper has been prepared by the Chamber of Commerce and Industry of India (CCI India) to serve as a rigorous, evidence-based strategic instrument for structured engagement with the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare. Unlike conventional industry representations, this document seeks to identify precise execution gaps, policy enablement opportunities, and ecosystem-level interventions where CCI India can serve as a credible, value-creating institutional partner. The analysis draws upon the latest National Health Policy frameworks, Union Budget allocations, National Health Mission performance data, WHO and World Bank benchmarks, and sector intelligence to arrive at actionable recommendations tailored to the Ministry's evolving priorities.

The national development context is one of transformative ambition. India's healthcare sector valued at approximately USD 372 billion in 2023 and projected to reach USD 638 billion by 2030 is witnessing concurrent revolutions in digital health, medical technology, insurance penetration, pharmaceutical innovation, and public health infrastructure. The Government's flagship Ayushman Bharat programme, combined with the PM-JAY health coverage scheme, represents the world's largest government-funded health assurance initiative. Yet, significant structural gaps persist in workforce adequacy, rural health infrastructure, medical equipment indigenisation, and preventive health culture gaps that demand organised private sector participation.

The purpose of this Knowledge Paper is threefold: first, to provide a comprehensive strategic mapping of the Ministry's mandate, institutional structure, and performance trajectory; second, to identify high-priority collaboration domains where CCI India's institutional capabilities align with the Ministry's unmet needs; and third, and to propose a concrete, time-bound collaboration framework with measurable outcomes and governance mechanisms. This document is intended for circulation among Union Ministers, Secretaries to the Government of India, NITI Aayog, senior bureaucrats, industry leaders, development finance institutions, and international health agencies.

1. Introduction to the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare

1.1 Constitutional and Statutory Mandate

Health is a State subject under Entry 6 of List II (State List) of the Seventh Schedule of the Indian Constitution. However, the Union Government exercises concurrent legislative authority under Entry 26 (communicable diseases, quarantine), Entry 42 (drugs and poisons), and Entry 66 (standards in institutions of higher education) of the Concurrent List. The Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, established as a Union Ministry, derives its policy authority from this constitutional framework and is tasked with formulating national health policy, managing centrally sponsored health schemes, regulating pharmaceuticals, coordinating public health emergencies, and ensuring inter-state coordination on disease control.

The Ministry operates under the primary mandate of the National Health Policy 2017 (NHP 2017), which commits India to achieving Universal Health Coverage (UHC), reducing out-of-pocket (OOP) health expenditure, and strengthening public health systems. The NHP 2017 establishes specific targets: raising public health expenditure to 2.5% of GDP by 2025; reducing infant mortality rate (IMR) to 28 per 1,000 live births; achieving Total Fertility Rate (TFR) of 2.1; and eliminating tuberculosis by 2025. These targets form the strategic backbone against which the Ministry's performance is evaluated.

1.2 Evolution of the Ministry

The Ministry's institutional evolution reflects India's changing health priorities across seven decades. At independence, the primary focus was on communicable disease control particularly smallpox eradication, malaria control, and cholera containment through a vertically integrated public health infrastructure. The 1978 Alma Ata Declaration on primary healthcare and India's adoption of the Health for All by 2000 agenda introduced a comprehensive primary health care orientation that eventually led to the construction of the three-tier Primary Health Centre (PHC), Community Health Centre (CHC), and District Hospital architecture.

The 2005 launch of the National Rural Health Mission (NRHM) marked a watershed in India's health governance, injecting significant fiscal resources into rural health infrastructure, community health worker (ASHA) deployment, and institutional delivery promotion. The subsequent merger with the National Urban Health Mission in 2013 to form the National Health Mission (NHM) broadened the Ministry's urban health mandate. The 2018 launch of Ayushman Bharat combining Health and Wellness Centres (HWCs) and PM-JAY represented a paradigm shift from disease management to comprehensive, preventive, and financially protected healthcare.
