Preface

The Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) occupies a position of singular constitutional and operational centrality in the governance architecture of the Republic of India. As the custodian of internal security, national integration, border management, disaster resilience, and the administration of Union Territories, the MHA's mandate transcends conventional departmental boundaries it is, in the truest sense, the bedrock upon which India's political, social, and economic stability rests.

In an era defined by converging threats from cross-border terrorism and cybercrime to climate-induced disasters and demographic pressures along sensitive frontiers the Ministry's responsibilities have expanded dramatically beyond traditional law enforcement. The 21st-century MHA is simultaneously a security architect, a technology adopter, a disaster management authority, and an enabler of Centre-State cooperative governance. Its decisions ripple across sectors, influence investor confidence, shape subnational governance, and ultimately determine the lived experience of 1.44 billion citizens.

This Knowledge Paper has been prepared by the Chamber of Commerce and Industry of India (CCI India) with a singular purpose: to map the Ministry's strategic landscape with analytical rigour and to articulate, with precision, the pathways through which a structured CCI India-MHA collaboration can accelerate institutional effectiveness, technological modernisation, industry participation, and policy execution across the Ministry's diverse domains.

The paper draws upon constitutional provisions, parliamentary committee reports, Union Budget allocations, MHA annual reports, NITI Aayog strategy documents, international benchmarking frameworks, and sector-specific data to construct a comprehensive, evidence-based strategic analysis. It is not a descriptive overview. It is an action-oriented policy intelligence document designed to serve as the foundation for a durable, high-impact institutional partnership

India's journey toward Viksit Bharat 2047 a fully developed nation by the centenary of Independence will be shaped in no small measure by the MHA's ability to build a secure, resilient, technologically advanced, and cohesively administered internal environment. CCI India is uniquely positioned to serve as the strategic bridge between the Ministry's institutional mandate and India's dynamic private sector ecosystem translating policy intent into on-ground implementation at scale.

This document is intended for Union Ministers, Secretaries to Government, senior bureaucrats, NITI Aayog advisors, industry leaders, development finance institutions, and international agencies engaged with India's governance modernisation agenda. It is publication-ready and has been structured to facilitate immediate strategic conversations and collaboration proposals.

1: INTRODUCTION TO THE MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS

1.1 Constitutional Mandate and Foundational Role

The Ministry of Home Affairs derives its mandate from multiple provisions of the Constitution of India, most prominently the Seventh Schedule, which delineates the legislative domains of the Union, States, and Concurrent Lists. Subjects of direct MHA concern including public order, police, prisons, borders, citizenship, and disaster management span both Union and Concurrent Lists, placing the Ministry at the intersection of exclusive federal authority and Centre-State cooperative governance.

Under Entry 1 of the Union List, the defence of India and related matters fall under central jurisdiction. Entries 2, 3, and 18 of the Union List vest authority over citizenship, naturalisation, migration, and extradition directly in the Union Government, all administered through MHA. The Ministry also administers the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) under the Disaster Management Act, 2005, conferring statutory emergency powers during national calamities.

Articles 355 and 356 of the Constitution empower the Union to ensure that every State Government is carried on in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution and, in extremis, to assume direct governance of a State. As the administrative organ through which these sovereign powers flow in matters of internal security and national integration, the MHA's constitutional role is both protective and regulatory in its deepest character.

1.2 Institutional Mandate and Operational Scope

- Internal Security Architecture: The MHA functions as the apex authority for India's internal security framework, coordinating the operations of Central Armed Police Forces (CAPFs) comprising the BSF, CRPF, CISF, ITBP, SSB, NSG, and Assam Rifles an aggregate force of over 1.03 million personnel. The Ministry determines deployment protocols, counter-insurgency strategy, Left Wing Extremism (LWE) response frameworks, and anti-terrorism legislative instruments including the UAPA, NIA Act, and FCRA.
- Border Management and Frontier Security: India shares land borders of approximately 15,106 kilometres with seven nations and a coastline extending 7,516 kilometres. MHA's border management mandate executed through the Border Management Division covers the construction of border fencing, deployment of smart surveillance technologies, establishment of integrated check posts, and coordination of the Comprehensive Integrated Border Management System (CIBMS). Given India's complex neighbourhood, this mandate carries direct national security and economic implications.
- Disaster Risk Reduction and Emergency Management: Under the Disaster Management Act, 2005, MHA oversees NDMA and the National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) a 12-battalion professional emergency response capability. India faces annual economic losses estimated at USD 10–13 billion from natural disasters, making MHA's disaster management mandate a critical national economic priority, not merely a humanitarian function.
